

The Eminent Environmental Lawyer Award for Excellence Presentation

27 February 2025 | Perth

Each year, the Australian Environment and Planning Law Group of the Legal Practice Section endeavours to publicly acknowledge and celebrate outstanding lawyers in the environmental law field. The Eminent Environmental Lawyer Award for Excellence recognises an established lawyer whose longstanding and outstanding contribution to the field, both directly and in terms of supporting the education and development of younger lawyers, is worthy of celebration.

In 2025, the AEPLG will be celebrating Professor Alex Gardner from the University of Western Australia. Alex has taught and researched natural resources and environmental law since 1988. He has also taught constitutional law, administrative law and comparative law. He has been an active member of the Centre for Mining, Energy and Natural Resources Law, and was the Director Higher Degrees (Research) from 2017 to 2020. In addition to his contributions as an educator, he was a foundation member of both the National Environmental Law Association and the Environmental Defenders Office in Western Australia. Please join us in Perth to acknowledge and celebrate Professor Gardner's contribution to environmental law and to the legal profession.

Alex Gardner is Professor of Law at The University of Western Australia where he has taught and researched natural resources and environmental law since 1988. He has also taught constitutional law, administrative law and comparative law. He has taught students in the LLB, JD and Masters programs. He has been an active member of the Centre for Mining, Energy and Natural Resources Law, and was in 2017-2020 the Director Higher Degrees (Research). Alex becomes a UWA Emeritus Professor in 2025. Alex has been an active legal professional.
